ANIMATION INDUSTRY OF RUSSIA IN A CULTURAL CONTEXT: SYNERGY OF TRADITIONS AND INNOVATIONS

Organiser: Ministry of Culture of the Russian Federation, Association of Animated Film.

The animation industry in Russia is one of the most innovative areas of the creative economy, rooted in the great traditions of the Soviet school of animation. On the one hand, the industry is developing in line with global industrial trends, taking into account the demand for new types of content, new technologies and the needs of modern children. On the other hand, Russian animation creativity is based on our own unique cultural code, reflects the values embedded in it, forming the spiritual and moral basis of the worldview of the younger generation.

In a situation of external instability, the trend towards local content is increasing, and it is especially pronounced in the national republics, where projects are being created in national languages and using local national heroes. The republics of Sakha (Yakutia), Bashkiria, Tatarstan and others provide excellent examples of such content. Each region has its own unique cultural heritage, which is carefully preserved and passed on to the younger generation, including through animation. Cartoons are being created that are gaining recognition even outside of our country, for example, the series of the Yakut studio "Tundra", dedicated to the popularization of the culture of the Sakha people and initially localized in the Yakut language. Bashkiria has released a full-length cartoon "Northern Cupids" about the glorious Bashkir warriors, work is also underway on the TV series "Descendants of Salavat", and in Tatarstan the animated series "Tugan Batyr" about the national folklore hero and other projects based on the national epic and folk tales are being created. Since 2009, one of the largest regional studios Tatarmultfilm has been operating here.

Questions for discussion at the session:

- What requirements should animation content based on national traditions meet?
- How to maintain a balance between tradition and innovation when creating modern animation content?
- What challenges do regional studios and local animation brands face, and what difficulties do they have to overcome?
- How do I create a regional ecosystem for ordering local content?
- How can local content enter the federal and global markets?

PARTNERSHIP CAPITAL MARKET. PROSPECTS AND CHALLENGES

Organiser: Delovaya Rossiya.

"Islamic Finance and Investments" Hall 2	The Russian capital market plays an important role in supporting the Russian economy at the stage of its structural transformation and the formation of long-term financial resources in it. In a situation where most of the foreign investors who previously provided a significant inflow of capital have left the Russian stock market, and business interest in equity financing is actively growing, the market of partnership (Islamic) capital seems to be increasingly promising. Thus, the law on the implementation of an experiment in partnership financing, which came into force in September 2023, has already made it possible to begin to form a new layer of client-investors and client-consumers of financial services of Islamic banking, which in turn gave a new impetus to the development and improvement of the Russian financial market, as well as the creation of conditions for attracting foreign investment from the countries of the Organization of Islamic Cooperation. However, the issue of adapting the existing financial infrastructure of the capital market to new financial products still remains. What instruments of partnership financing have already become widespread? Has the practice of implementing transactions in the partnership capital market been established? What requirements can be imposed on issuers of the partnership financing market? 15:00-17:00 Hall "Halal Industry" Hall 5	PROSPECTS FOR COOPERATION IN THE AGRO-INDUSTRIAL COMPLEX IN OIC COUNTRIES Organiser: Delovaya Rossiya. In recent years, one can observe how Russia's cooperation with the countries of the Islamic world is gradually reaching a new level. And in this case, it concerns not only the political sphere, but also trade and economic or industrial relations. For example, in the last three years, trade turnover with the OIC countries has reached $156 billion, having increased by 37%. The products of mutual trade are not only energy resources, metals and other natural resources, but also equipment and food products. At the same time, the agro-industrial sector acquires special significance in this, given that the OIC countries are capable of dominating a number of international markets in the agro-industrial complex (grain, rice, soybeans, meat and fish products, tea, coffee, cotton, silk, mineral fertilisers, feed for aquaculture and livestock). Moreover, the halal product market itself is growing at an accelerated rate: 3.2% per year, outpacing the average annual growth rate of the global food market, which is 2.5%. The current demand for halal products is more than $200 billion, and the market itself is estimated at almost $3 trillion. In the long term, according to experts, by 2028 the turnover will reach $11 trillion. In other words, the prospect of forming new food markets is opening up, the functioning of which, however, is conditioned by the need to solve current problems of cooperation: the organisation of new transport and logistics corridors, uninterrupted supplies and financial infrastructure. Questions for discussion: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • What instruments are OIC countries ready to offer to expand cooperation in the agricultural sector? • What does Russian business need to create new agro-industrial production facilities in OIC countries? • What are the barriers and how to overcome them? • What role can Free Economic Zones play in strengthening cooperation in the food sector? • What support instruments are governments ready to provide? Moderator: Dmitry Antonov, Member of the General Council and Business Ambassador of Delovaya Rossiya in Iran, Chairman of the Committee on the Agro-Industrial Sector, Senior Vice President, Director of External Relations and GR of the Resource Group of Agricultural Enterprises. Speakers: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Alexander Chumak, Deputy Head of ANO "Russian Quality System" (Roskachestvo); • Gazizov Aidar, Director General of the International Center for Standardization and Certification "Halal" at the Spiritual Administration of Muslims of the Russian Federation; • Tatiana Menlikieva, Director of the branch of the Federal State Budgetary Institution "Federal Center for Safety and Quality Assessment of Agricultural Products" in the Republic of Tatarstan; • Yulia Bondareva, Advisor to the President of JSC St. Petersburg International Mercantile Exchange;

INTERNATIONAL TRANSPORT CORRIDOR "NORTH-SOUTH" WITH PARTICIPATION OF DEPUTY PRIME MINISTER V.G. SAVELYEV
Organiser: Ministry of Transport of the Russian Federation.

The formation of the international transport corridor "North-South" was initiated as an important transit link between the countries of the Caspian basin, the Persian Gulf, Central, South and South-East Asia, as well as an opportunity for the further development of bilateral transport along shorter and more economically advantageous routes.

In order to develop such transit communications, in September 2000 an agreement on the international transport corridor "North-South" was signed between Russia, Iran and India (12 countries are parties to the agreement).

The North-South MTK as a key element ensuring interaction with most latitudinal corridors. This approach opens up new opportunities for building logistics chains linking the EAEU countries, Europe, Asia, and the Middle East.

The North-South MTK as an important element of international logistics, capable of significantly changing existing commodity flows. The implementation of the inherent potential will significantly strengthen the ties between the countries of the Middle East, Asia and Europe, as well as the EAEU.

During the discussion chaired by Deputy Prime Minister of the Russian Federation V.G. Savelyev, the parties will be able to exchange new developments and projects for the development of international transport corridors, issues of priority areas of development and new vectors for the development of regional logistics and changes in priorities in logistics.

DIGITAL ACCELERATION OF SCIENCE: ARTIFICIAL INTELLIGENCE IN CHEMISTRY, PHYSICS AND BIOLOGY

Organiser: Innopolis.

The section is devoted to the discussion of the application of artificial intelligence technologies in scientific research, including physics, chemistry and biology. These areas of science actively use AI to accelerate discoveries and optimise processes. For example, large language models (LLM) can significantly improve the analysis of chemical data, such as the structure of molecules, proteins and chemical reaction conditions. This will open up new horizons for the creation of innovative materials, the treatment of diseases and the development of new technologies. It is expected that the use of AI in these areas can give the economy an increase comparable to what is already happening in the field of text processing. The importance of this area is beyond doubt: it can play a key role in scientific progress and global technological transformations.

Tourism is one of the important areas providing not only recreation and health promotion, but also solving social problems (creating additional jobs, increasing employment and well-being of the population), and economic growth. This area not only helps attract investors and business partners to various sectors of the economy, but also plays an important role in the development of career guidance for young people.

THE IMPACT OF THE CYCLIC ECONOMY AND "GREEN" PROJECTS ON THE DEVELOPMENT OF RUSSIA AND THE OIC COUNTRIES

Organiser: Chamber of Commerce and Industry of the Russian Federation.

Currently, in Russia and foreign countries there is a steady trend of increasing waste.

The process of rethinking the traditional (linear) economy and setting at the state level the tasks of returning useful components that can be extracted from production and consumption waste into economic circulation is becoming more and more obvious. Waste from a linear economy is an asset and resource for a closed-loop economy.

The effectiveness of the implementation of the principles of a closed-loop economy is associated with an increase in the rational use of resources, the creation of products taking into account the scenario of their disposal and the possibility of secondary use as raw materials for the creation of new products, as well as inter-industry production cooperation and systemic support from the legislative, executive authorities and business.

INNOVATIVE MODELS OF FINANCING HUMANITARIAN PROJECTS: HOW CAN ISLAMIC FINANCIAL INSTRUMENTS REDUCE THE DEFICIT OF FUNDS FOR DEVELOPMENT PURPOSES?

Organiser: Federal Agency for the Commonwealth of Independent States, Compatriots Living Abroad and International Humanitarian Cooperation (Rossotrudnichestvo).

The extensive UN system exists in the context of a "chronic" deficit in funding for humanitarian programmes. Thus, according to the Secretary-General's report on the work of the Organisation, in 2023, underfunding of humanitarian activities amounted to a record 60% - the $22.7 billion provided by donors covered less than half of the $56.1 billion needed to save lives. At the same time, countries that can be conditionally classified as "Arab donors" (Saudi Arabia, Qatar, Kuwait, UAE) traditionally allocate impressive amounts of funding for development cooperation. Thus, in monetary terms, the ratio of official development assistance to gross national income is, on average, twice as high as the indicator for member countries of the Development Assistance Committee of the Organisation for Economic Cooperation and Development. It is expected that by 2027, the size of Islamic finance in the world will reach $6.7 trillion. They are based on the principles of sustainable development, profit and loss sharing, prohibition of speculation, prevention of deterioration of the client's financial situation, which forms the prerequisites for sustainable development. In this regard, against the background of the urgent need to mobilise resources for humanitarian purposes and assistance to development, one of the effective sources of financing social and humanitarian projects is Islamic financial instruments and forms of charity.

The following topics will be discussed during the panel discussion:

- the basic principles and concept of Islamic finance, the scale of Islamic banking – a universal solution or an exclusive option for regions with a Muslim majority;
- practice of implementing Islamic banking instruments, cooperation between the Eurasian Development Bank and the Islamic Development Bank;
- the potential for developing cooperation between international financial institutions and banks promoting Islamic financing instruments and non-profit humanitarian organisations to solve the problems of the "Eurocentric" system of development assistance;
- country and regional priorities of "Arab donors" and the areas of development assistance in which they are most active; politics, charity or strict financial calculation – what goals are pursued by "new donors".
